

1. two area

2. User input in edit text area, when user clicks save, the note will show on the list.

3. User can input words in edit text area

A vertical rectangular container with a thin black border. Inside, there is a light green rectangular area at the top. Within this green area, there is a white text input field containing the text "asd" with a red underline. Below the input field is a white button with the text "Save". Below the green area is a large, empty white rectangular area.

4. User can click "SAVE", then the words will shows in list area

A vertical rectangular container with a thin black border, identical in layout to the previous one. The top light green area contains a white text input field with "asd" and a red underline, and a white "Save" button below it. The large white area below now contains the text "1.asd" in the top-left corner.

5. User can also edit text in list area

A UI mockup showing a form with two main sections. The top section contains a text input field with the text "asd" and a "Save" button below it. The bottom section is a large rectangular area containing the text "1.asdsss".

6. user can input new text

A UI mockup showing a form with two main sections. The top section contains a text input field with the text "1111" and a "Save" button below it. The bottom section is a large rectangular area containing the text "1.asdsss".

7. when user click "Save" again, a new list will show in

1111

Save

1.Asdsss

2.1111